Memorandum
To: Superintendent, Independence
From: Regional Director
Subject: Historic Structures Report, Part I, Christian Street Houses

Enclosed for revision are the two copies of subject report. (By copy of this memorandum to EODC, that office is requested to return its copy to you, also.)

The Historical Data Section is quite adequate, and needs no revision. The Administrative Data Section, however, should be revised to include a specific statement from you (in the "Justification" Section) as to why these buildings should not be retained, or definite recommendation that they be demolished and the area landscaped, and cost estimates for so doing. Typing the Administrative Data Section on one page, or if necessary two--instead of using a separate page for each heading--is also suggested.

These structures, in the perspective of the 21st Century, will represent a highly characteristic new-home unit which characterized the mid-19th Century. As such, they are of historical interest, even if they do not represent the period of the construction of Klein Der. They are a link between the 18th and the 20th Century.

When the NPS has decided to tear them down (after I assume correctly EDCO), I suggest archeological excavation the ends of the premises for future evidence. J. O. Ott.

CHAPTER I

ADMINISTRATIVE DATA

Prepared by Superintendent M. O. Anderson
NAME AND NUMBER OF BUILDING

Nos. 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12 Christian Street.

PROPOSED USE OF STRUCTURES AND JUSTIFICATION

None.

The evidence presented in the Historical Data Section of this report establishes that the properties numbered 2 - 12 Christian Street are not of 18th-Century origin but have been erected sometime after 1833 and that they have no significant historical association. In view of this and of the fact that these buildings are not required for any administrative or interpretive purposes, either by the government or Gloria Dei National Historic Site, and because any proposed retention would appear to be inconsistent with the purpose of Public Law 85-709, we recommend that the buildings be demolished and the area graded and landscaped to provide a dignified, open setting for Gloria Dei (Old Swedes' Church). The estimated cost of development of total area, of which these six properties form only a part, will be $429,500. This total figure breaks down as follows:

PCP R-11 (Ind.) Const. Walks & Curbs - $100,400
PCP M-19 (Ind.) Grounds Dev. - 304,900
PCP B-140 (Ind.) Demolition of Bldgs. - 24,200

Total - $429,500
PROVISION FOR OPERATING SITE

To be maintained by rector and vestry of Gloria Dei as part of Gloria Dei National Historic Site.

PRELIMINARY ESTIMATE OF COST OF DEMOLITION AND LANDSCAPING

See previous section.
CHAPTER II

HISTORICAL DATA

Prepared by Martin I. Yoelson
STRUCTURAL EVIDENCE FROM DOCUMENTARY SOURCES

For the one hundred and forty years following the erection of Gloria Dei (Old Sweden') Church, located on Swanson Street below Christian Street, the area north of it remained an open area with the exception of a frame tenement of undetermined dimensions which stood at the southwest corner of these streets. The frame structure was erected in the 1780's and removed sometime after 1840.

Sometime after 1833 but prior to 1844 a row of six, three-story brick dwellings (See Illustration) was erected on the south side of Christian Street, 60 feet east of Swanson Street. The buildings numbered 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12 Christian Street, were built by Thomas Mercer. To the east of number 2 Christian Street was a vacant lot. Along the west side of number 12 Christian Street ran a ten foot alley extending in depth 88 feet. In the background were the church and its associated structures.

Each dwelling was erected on a lot with a frontage of sixteen feet. The depths of the six lots varied, gradually increasing from 60 feet along the east side of number 2 Christian Street to 88 feet on the west side of number 12 Christian Street.

No insurance surveys, contemporary plans, or descriptive information for these buildings have been found.

Structurally each dwelling has a frontage of 16 feet and extends in depth approximately 35 to 40 feet. At this point the structure narrows to a width of about eight feet and further extends some ten feet, giving the appearance of an attached three-story brick back building.

The six dwellings were erected by Thomas Mercer.

Examination of the basic source materials—chains of title, eighteenth and early nineteenth century tax records, and city directories, as well as iconographical collections and published works, revealed an absence of descriptions and plans, and indications of use or post-construction alterations. Thus a detailed structural account of the houses, the number and arrangement of rooms, etc., cannot be given.

The evidence is fairly conclusive that there were no buildings on this site prior to 1833, and perhaps not until 1844.
HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

The ground on which these buildings stand was originally part of a larger lot. It fronted 350 feet on Christian Street. Its depth along the Delaware River was 34 feet and on the west 88 feet. This larger lot was granted in 1753 to Thomas White by the Swedish Lutheran Church.

In 1762 the property was purchased by four shipwrights: Warwick Coates, Arthur Donaldson, Joseph Marsh, and Simon Sherlock. One year later Donaldson sold his one-quarter interest in the property to Sherlock. Between 1783 and 1784 Joseph Marsh acquired the outstanding shares to become sole owner. He then sold the easternmost part of the lot to Robert Knox.

The lot of ground retained by Marsh fronted 153 feet on the south side of Christian Street and had a depth along Swanson Street of 42 feet. On the west its depth was 88 feet.

With the exception of a frame structure erected after 1784 on the corner of Christian and Swanson Streets, Marsh made no improvements to the property.

From 1793 until 1823 Marsh resided at number 23 Christian Street.

Marsh retained the Christian Street property until his death in 1826, bequeathing it to his son, Joseph, and daughters, Susan Rogers and Elizabeth Josiah. In 1833 the heirs of Joseph Marsh sold the property, an open lot of ground with the frame structure, to Thomas Mercer, a grocer.

Between 1833 and 1844 Mercer erected the row of six brick dwellings on the westernmost part of the lot (frontage of 96 feet). Mercer did not reside in any one of his newly constructed houses. From 1813 to 1828 he rented the frame tenement at the southwest corner of Christian and Swanson Streets and operated a grocery. In 1829 he removed to the southwest corner of Queen and Swanson Streets and continued this business.

By 1837, as indicated in the city directories, Mercer retired from business and moved to a new residence on Queen Street.

Information concerning the use and occupancy of the Christian Street houses is meagre. To obtain such would require a painstaking, page by page, examination of nineteenth century directories, a considerable task. There appears to be no justification for it.

In 1842 the Congregation of the Swedish Lutheran Churches was granted a two year option to the number 12 Christian Street property. The transaction was negated in 1844 and Mercer sold this holding to Archibald McMullin, a bricklayer. Nine years later Robert Ellefson, a mariner, purchased the property. The heirs of Ellefson in 1889 sold it to Caroline Maisel who retained ownership until 1911. For the next fourteen years there was frequent change of ownership. In 1925 Nathan Berger acquired the property.
The other five dwellings were retained by the heirs of Thomas Mercer until 1903 when they were purchased by William Battle. In 1925 the heirs of William Battle sold the properties to Nathan Berger who became the second individual owner of the row.

Between 1925 and 1960, when the Federal Government purchased the combined properties, there were seven subsequent owners.
HISTORICAL IMPORTANCE

No figure of historical importance is associated with the Christian Street Houses and no significant event took place there. The structures themselves were not erected until the mid-nineteenth century. The absence even of any local traditions in connection with the structures and their lack of age would seem to render a prolonged research program wholly unwarranted. The site on which the present houses are located was an open area for well-nigh one hundred and fifty years, presenting an excellent vista of Gloria Dei from the north. In sum, we cannot find any basis for recommending that the Christian Street houses be retained.
