PHOTOGRAPHS AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

They started what is now known as Design and Construction in the National Park Service

George Goodwin
First NPS Engineer
1917 - 1925

Charles Punchard
First NPS Landscape Architect
1918 - 1920

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS, DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION

Thomas C. Vint
Chief and later
Asst. Director
1954 - 1961

Mr. Vint joined the National Park Service as a draftsman in 1922. In 1927 he became Chief Landscape Architect at the old San Francisco Office (sort of a predecessor of the later WODC and SSC-DC). He was transferred to WASO in 1933 as Chief Architect. There he initiated and executed the Master Plan system for the orderly development of all the areas in the system at that time. He also established and directed the original (1933-1942) Historic American Buildings Survey. Mr. Vint received the Distinguished Service Award in 1952. In 1946 he became Chief, Branch of Development and in 1954 Chief of D&C. He received the Cornelius Amory Pugsley 1955 Gold Medal in recognition of his outstanding accomplishments in the field of conservation. Mr. Vint retired in 1961 from Assistant Director, D&C, after completing 39 years in the Service. He died on October 26, 1967.

Clark Stratton
1961 - 1964

Mr. Stratton's career with the Service dates back to 1936. He served in numerous capacities in the Field, Regional and Washington Offices including Superintendent, Chief of Operations, Chief of Concessions Management, Assistant Director, D&C, Assoc. Director, and Deputy Director. He holds the Department of Interior's highest awards for civilian service - the Distinguished Service Award and the Meritorious Service Award. Mr. Stratton retired from Deputy Director of National Park Service in 1968.

Johannes E. N. Jensen
1964 - 1967

Mr. Jensen joined the National Park Service in June 1963 as Chief of Division of Construction, Washington Office of D&C. Prior to that time he held supervisory and managerial positions with the Michigan State Highway Department and with a number of large companies. Immediately prior to his entry into NPS in 1963, Mr. Jensen was associated with the noted architectural firm of Eero Saarinen & Associates. During that period he was responsible for supervision, correlation and design including the Gateway Arch for the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial in St. Louis, Missouri. He was promoted to Assistant Director, D&C, in 1964. In 1967 Mr. Jensen became Deputy Associate Director, and in 1968 he was promoted to Associate Director, Planning and Development. Mr. Jensen received the Meritorious Service Award in 1969.

Chas. E. Krueger
1967 - 1969

Mr. Krueger began his Service career in October 1933 as a Senior Foreman, Landscape Architect with the Civilian Conservation Corps in Oklahoma. During his long career he served in numerous capacities in the Field, Regional and Washington Offices including Park Landscape Architect; Chief of Major Roads Branch and later Chief Landscape Architect in WODC; Deputy Assistant Director, D&C and Chief, Division of Project Design, WSC and as Assistant Director, D&C. He received the Distinguished Service Award in 1968. Mr. Krueger retired May 3, 1969.

Deputy Assistant Director, Design and Construction

William S. Rosenberg
1968 -

Mr. Rosenberg succeeded Mr. Krueger as Deputy Assistant Director, Design and Construction. He joined the National Park Service in 1956 as Park Landscape Architect in WODC. After a special assignment with the Bureau of Land Management in 1964, and 1965 he returned to NPS in 1966 to become Chief, Division of Design Research and Analysis, WSC-DC. Mr. Rosenberg was Chief, Division of Project Design, WSC-DC prior to becoming Deputy Assistant Director.

NARRATIVE - JANUARY 1962 TO JUNE 1969

The National Capital Office, D&C was activated on January 11, 1962. At that time the Office of D&C comprised the Washington Office (WASO-DC), the Eastern Office in Philadelphia (EODC), the Western Office in San Francisco (WODC), and the National Capital Office in Washington (NCDC).

A Division of Construction was established in the Washington Office, D&C, in June 1963 and Mr. J. E. N. Jensen became its Chief.

Following Director Wirth's retirement in 1963, Mr. George B. Hartzog, Jr. (who had been serving as Associate Director) became Director. In January 1964, Mr. Stratton became Associate Director and Mr. Jensen succeeded him as Assistant Director, D&C.

The Personnel Office of the Eastern Office, D&C, was consolidated with the Northeast Region Personnel Office in June 1963. The Personnel Office of the Western Office, D&C was consolidated with the Western Region Personnel Office in July 1964.

In March 1966, a portion of the Service was reorganized and Planning and Service Centers were established in Arlington (Rosslyn), Virginia; Philadelphia and San Francisco. The purpose of the reorganization was to locate the functions of Design and Construction, Resource Planning, and certain Land and Water Rights activities so that they would be performed on a centralized basis for respective geographical portions of the country. In the Washington and San Francisco Service Centers small Concessions Management offices were also established.

Also in March 1966, the Division of Master Planning, WASO-DC, (including its Chief, Mr. John A. Reshoft, and his secretary) was transferred to the Assistant Director, Cooperative Activities, as part of the Division of New Area Studies and Master Planning.

The Office of Design and Construction, Washington Service Center was formed by the consolidation of the former WASO-DC and NCDC, plus the transfer from EODC of the major roads and parkways activity for the East, the field landscape architectural staff in the Southeast, and the Historic American Buildings Survey function and staffing for the East. By mutual agreement, the field landscape architects continued to perform minor roads and trails duties for the Philadelphia Office.

The D&C Office in the Washington Service Center was organized as follows:

- Office of the Assistant Director, Design and Construction
- Division of Design Research and Analysis
- Division of Development Planning and Project Control
- Division of Project Design
- Division of Contract Administration and Compliance
- Division of Construction

The D&C organization of the Philadelphia and San Francisco Service Centers headed by Robert G. Hall and William L. Bowen respectively consisted of:

- Office of the Chief
- Division of Development Planning and Project Control
- Division of Project Design
- Division of Contract Administration and Construction

Mr. Jensen continued as Assistant Director, D&C and Mr. Charles E. Krueger came from the Western Office, D&C to become Deputy Assistant Director, and Chief, Division of Project Design in WSC.

Centralized administrative services were performed by D&C in Washington Planning and Service Center and San Francisco Planning and Service Center for all offices in each of the respective Service Centers.

Mr. Hall transferred from Chief, D&C, Philadelphia Planning and Service Center to the Bureau of Public Roads, Denver, Colorado in April 1966 and was succeeded by Mr. H. Reese Smith.

In the Washington Planning and Service Center the following organizational changes were made during the first few months: The Division of Design Research and Analysis was changed to Division of Environmental Design. The Division of Contract Administration and Compliance and the Division of Construction were combined into the Division of Contract Administration and Construction.

The Historic American Buildings Survey, the Historic Structures activity and the staffing for each were transferred from the D&C office in WSC to Division of Historic Architecture in the Office of Archeology and Historic Preservation in Washington on July 2, 1967. A small historic architecture office was established in the Western Regional Office.

Early in 1967 the duties of the Deputy Assistant Director became greater and more demanding and it became necessary for Mr. Krueger to relinquish his additional responsibilities as Chief, Division of Project Design. Mr. William S. Rosenberg then became Chief of that Division.

In October 1967, Mr. Jensen was reassigned to the position of Deputy Associate Director for Urban Affairs and was succeeded by Mr. Krueger. William S. Rosenberg became Deputy Assistant Director of Design and Construction in January 1968.

Effective July 1, 1968, the responsibility for Service Center activities in the States of Minnesota, Iowa, and Missouri was changed from the Philadelphia Service Center to the San Francisco Service Center.

Mr. Bowen was reassigned from Chief, SSC-DC, to Regional Director, Western Region in December 1968. Mr. Glen O. Hendrix succeeded Mr. Bowen as Chief, Design and Construction, San Francisco Planning and Service Center.

The Office of the Assistant Director, D&C was relocated in the Interior Building in Washington, D.C., and Assistant Director Krueger, Mr. Robert G. Cooper and their secretaries moved there from WSC in April 1969. Due to lack of space and other considerations other members of Mr. Krueger's immediate staff remained in the WSC.

The Compliance activity was transferred from D&C to Operations. Compliance Officer Houston R. Turner and his assistant also moved to the Interior Building in April 1969.

The Washington Planning and Service Center including Design and Construction, Resource Planning, some of the Land and Water Rights offices and the small Concessions office, moved from Arlington, Virginia to the Tamol Building, on Wisconsin Avenue in Washington, D.C., on April 14, 1969.

The move resulted in the realignment of some D&C functions and several interim designations of personnel were made to provide continuity of D&C operations.

Mr. Krueger retired from Assistant Director, D&C on May 3, 1969. Mr. Robert G. Cooper was designated as Acting Assistant Director.

RANDOM NOTES

A budget for salaries for the Engineering Division, San Francisco Office, for the 1929 Fiscal Year listed a staffing of 25 permanent and four temporary personnel including engineers, landscape architects, draftsmen, stenographers, a chief clerk, a forester and a fire control expert. The Chief Engineer's salary was $5,600 and the average salary was about $2,600 per year.

A staffing roster for the Branch of Plans and Design dated June 25, 1934 showed Thomas C. Vint, Chief Architect, Washington, D.C., and San Francisco, California in charge of the Branch. The eastern division of the branch was under Deputy Chief Architect Charles E. Peterson and consisted of 90 employees including the Historic American Buildings Survey and field people in parks and parkways. A western division whose Chief was William G. Carnes, had 61 employees some which also were located in parks. (In those days a division was a unit of a branch.) Also listed were 36 people including consultants for Schoodic Radio Station Plans (Acadia), contract architects for Morristown Museum, Historic American Buildings Survey, National Advisory Committee and squad members of the Acoma Pueblo Survey by the Laboratory of Anthropology, Santa Fe, New Mexico. This comparatively large staffing resulted from the addition of more than 50 areas transferred from other Government agencies in one year and the inauguration of the Civilian Conservation Corps program.

The following major activities of the Service began in the old engineering or plans and design offices (that later became Design and Construction):

- Historic American Buildings Survey
- Maintenance
- Master Planning
- Programming
- Water Rights
