Administrative Information

The papers of Harold LeClair Ickes (1874-1952), secretary of the interior, were given to the Library of Congress by Jane Dahlman Ickes in 1952. Subsequent installments were given to the Library by the Ickes family from 1952 to 1972. Small amounts of additional material were purchased from Paul H. North, Jr., in 1984 and given to the Library by Frances W. Saunders in 1985.

In 1952 copyright in the unpublished writings of Harold L. Ickes in these papers and in other collections of papers in the Library of Congress was dedicated to the public, except that these rights are reserved to Elizabeth Ickes and Harold McEwen Ickes during their lifetimes.

Some photographs, cartoons, and posters have been transferred to the Library's Prints and Photographs Division where they are identified as part of these papers.

Some maps have been transferred to the Library's Geography and Map Division where they are identified as part of these papers.

A microfilm edition of Ickes's diary (with index) and memoirs on twenty-one reels is available from the Library's Photoduplication Service for purchase subject to the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, U.S.C.). This microfilm edition may also be requested on interlibrary loan through the Library's Loan Division. Ten reels may be requested at a time for a loan period of one month.

Scope and Content Note

The Harold LeClair Ickes papers span the years 1815-1969, with most of the material concentrated in the period 1933-1951. Almost all aspects of his career are illuminated in the papers through letters to friends and critics, through official correspondence while he was secretary of the interior, in his diary, in unpublished and published memoirs and autobiographical sketches, and by his speeches and statements. Ickes's diary is especially revealing, not only of his own life and career, but also for his observations on affairs of state and comments on prominent public figures. The collection includes little family correspondence, although his personal memoirs in the Speeches and Writings File contain information regarding his family life and early years.

The General Correspondence series is organized into two chronological sections: 1903-1933 and 1946-1952. Ickes's personal correspondence for the period in which he was secretary of the interior is in the Secretary of Interior File, much of it under the heading "Friends." From the time he first became interested in politics, assisting in the 1905 mayoralty campaign of John Maynard Harlan, Ickes was a reformer. Material on Progressivism and Theodore Roosevelt's relationship to the movement is found in the files on Hiram Johnson, Raymond Robins, and Donald Richberg. Other political subjects discussed in the General Correspondence include the 1920 presidential campaign of James M Cox; Charles Evans Hughes and the presidential campaign of 1916, especially in the files on Will Hays and James R. Garfield; the appointment of Progressives to political office in Chicago and in Illinois; and the attempt by Hiram Johnson to take the 1924 Republican presidential nomination from Calvin Coolidge.

Ickes wrote regularly for the Progressive State Central Committee of Illinois, advocating such measures as the banning of literacy tests for immigrants as a requisite for voting, and product safety. He also played an active part during the 1920s in the People's Traction League, an association organized to combat the attempt by Samuel Insull to control rail service in Chicago during the period 1925-1930, and the People's Protective League, 1922-1923, through which Ickes and a few other Progressives blocked the passage of a revised Illinois constitution which they believed was not compatible with the needs of the people. These activities are documented in the first section of the General Correspondence file as are such diverse interests as his stock market investments and his hobbies of growing dahlias and collecting stamps.

The second part of the General Correspondence, 1946-1952, file deals with the period after Ickes resigned as secretary of the interior. In retirement he pursued interests developed during the years he served in the Roosevelt Cabinet. There is considerable correspondence on conservation issues, his interest in bringing the controversial offshore oil issue before the Supreme Court for final settlement, on planning for the hydrogen bomb, and corruption in government. An occasional file relates to his law interests. File names in the General Correspondence series relate to both names of correspondents and names of subjects.

While Ickes was secretary of the interior, his personal file of correspondence and other material was housed separately from the Interior Department's official file which was retained by the National Archives and Records Administration. The Interior Department File in this collection constitutes the largest single segment of the Ickes Papers and profiles his life as a public official. Ickes was particularly solicitous of the American Indian and the plight of the Japanese-Americans on the West Coast during World War II. Other prominent subjects include the problems the Interior Department encountered in governing territorial possessions such as Puerto Rico, oil and its effect upon society and business, oil as a dwindling natural resource, the early development of a Middle East pipeline and the formation of the Arabian-American Oil Company, the offshore oil dispute, presidential politics and Ickes's role in presidential campaigns, the Roosevelt cabinet and Ickes's disagreements with fellow cabinet officers, including Henry Morgenthau (1891-1967), and Henry Agard Wallace, and public works. Card indexes to the correspondence and speeches in this file are available in the Manuscript Division Reading Room.

Also in the Secretary of Interior File are drafts and final copies of articles, books, pamphlets, and speeches for the 1933-1946 period with related correspondence. The file reveals how prolific Ickes was as a speaker and writer. It also shows that not all of Ickes's writings were from his own hand, although they were carefully reviewed and often rewritten by the secretary himself.

In the Speeches and Writings File are the speeches and writings for the period before and after his years as secretary of the interior, reading copies and a printed set of the speeches he delivered as secretary, and his memoirs, which he began to write shortly after entering Roosevelt's cabinet. The memoirs are intimate and revealing, shedding light on his whole life, his education, family relationships, legal career, political interests, World War I experiences, life in Chicago after the war, political struggles as a campaign manager (with sketches of local Chicago political figures such as Fred Busse, John Maynard Harlan, and Charles Merriam), and promoter of reform measures. Another group of memoirs was written for serialization in the Saturday Evening Post and possible later publication.

The Subject File supplements the files in the General Correspondence. The Legal File is valuable for the years before 1933, a period not well documented in most other parts of the collection. Although a lawyer by training, Ickes was a politician by avocation, using his law career as a base of operations for his political involvements and civic responsibilities. As the papers show, he represented clients in divorce suits, property settlements, and in drafting wills. He also represented trade associations, corporate interests, and was occasionally involved in criminal cases. After he left public service, he represented a few clients in an advisory capacity.

Scrapbooks and miscellaneous material complete the collection. Included in the Miscellany series are items which relate to topics found elsewhere in the Ickes Papers. Types of material in this series include printed matter, invitations, reports, memorabilia, financial journals, and a scheduling file of engagements and activities for the last six years of Ickes's life. The oversize scrapbooks contain newspaper clippings compiled by Department of the Interior staff reflecting Ickes's achievements as secretary as well as compilations of personal memorabilia.

A small Addition series contains Ickes-related material obtained by the Library from a couple of sources and added to the Ickes Papers. The bulk of this material is correspondence between Karl D. Vittum and Ickes, 1914-1917, regarding the Progressive Party of Illinois.

Microfilm and Indexes

Ickes's diary and memoirs, which form an important part of his papers, are also available on microfilm. The complete typewritten copy of his diary, 1933-1951 (Containers 1-17 in the papers), is available on nine reels, with an alphabetical index for 1933-1945 on three reels. Ickes's memoirs, covering both his personal and public life (Containers 432-444), are available on nine reels.

The typewritten copy of the diary now in Containers 1-17 was microfilmed after its receipt by the Library. The typed copy was subsequently withdrawn by the depositor to prepare the published version, and it was returned with approximately three hundred pages missing. The missing pages listed below are thus included only in the microfilm copy. A third copy of the diary, consisting of an original typescript for the years 1943-1951, with emendations by an editor, is housed in Containers 18-25; it does not appear on the microfilm.

The microfilmed diary index for 1933-1945 was prepared from a twenty volume set of photocopies of index cards; this set is available in the Manuscript Division Reading Room. Also available are index cards for the diary for 1946; an alphabetical card index to the outgoing correspondence in the Secretary of Interior File; and a card index, arranged by subject and location, to the speeches Ickes delivered as secretary of the interior.

Pages missing from the typewritten copy of the diary (Containers 1-17) but included in the microfilm copy are as follows.

Description of Series

Container Nos. Contents

1-25 Diary, 1933-1951.

Ickes's private diary in three forms: (1) a microfilm edition of a typewritten copy of the complete diary, 1933-1951, on nine reels of microfilm, plus alphabetical card index to the diary for the years 1933-1945, on three reels of microfilm; (2) a typewritten copy of the diary, 1933-1951, with about three-hundred pages missing (removed by depositor after the microfilming was completed); and (3) an original typescript of the diary for the years 1943-1951, with emendations by the depositor and/or publishing company made before parts of the diary were published. Also miscellaneous diary entries and entries of a special nature such as sketches of contemporary figures (see Container 25).

26-28 Family Papers, 1815-1969, n.d.

Letters received and copies of letters sent and legal documents such as affidavits, court depositions, and indentures. The correspondence is arranged by name of family member and, in the case of Jane D. Ickes, contains an exchange of letters with nonfamily members. The legal material is grouped by type of material and also by case.

28 Letterbooks, 1905-1912.

Bound volumes of carbon copies of personal letters sent. Organized chronologically by volume.

29-92 General Correspondence, 1903-1952, n.d.

Letters received and copies of letters sent. Organized into two chronological periods, 1903-1933 and 1946-1952. File names refer to name of correspondent and may also refer to subject material relating to that name. Each section is arranged alphabetically by name of person, organization, or subject, and chronologically therein.

Container Nos. Contents

- 93-380 Secretary of Interior File, 1933-1946, n.d.
Letters received and copies of letters sent, memoranda, reports, drafts of speeches, articles, and books, appointment calendars, essays on legal interpretation, newspaper clippings, printed matter, and miscellaneous material. Arranged alphabetically by name of person, organization, subject, or type of material, and chronologically therein, except for correspondence in the speech file and other groups which is in alphabetical order. The chronology is maintained through the responding outgoing letter. Card indexes to the correspondence and speeches in this file are available in the Manuscript Division Reading Room.
- 381-394 Legal File, 1877-1952.
Letters received and copies of letters sent, legal briefs, indentures, trial transcripts, affidavits, decrees, and business documents. Arranged alphabetically by name, case, client, business, or association. The correspondence is arranged separately. Most of the material predates 1933.
- 395-405 Subject File, 1905-1952.
Reports, memoranda, documents relating to Senate hearings, press releases, lists, newspaper clippings, notes, statements, articles, and some correspondence. Arranged alphabetically by subject. The files are organized into two chronological periods, 1905-1933 and 1946-1952.
- 406-464 Speeches and Writings File, 1910-1952, n.d.
Annotated typewritten drafts of Ickes's memoirs, drafts and galley proofs of articles, drafts of speeches, annotated typewritten drafts and mimeographed copies of his columns for the New York Post and the New Republic, of incomplete drafts of books, printed and typed reading copies of his speeches while he was secretary of the interior, and correspondence. Arranged by type of material and mostly chronologically thereunder.
- 465-490 Miscellany, 1844-1961, n.d.
Financial journals, engagement calendars, notes, memoranda, reports, genealogical material, press clippings, invitations, awards, honorary degrees, memorabilia, letters of condolence, speeches and writings by others, and printed matter. Arranged by topic or type of material and chronologically therein.

Container Nos. Contents

- 490 Scrapbooks, 1883-1954.
