TRIP DESCRIBED

We meet tourist on the arrival of the Park train in the morning, at terminus of the railroad. We give early dinner at Gardiner. From Gardiner to the Mammoth Springs is a distance of five miles over an elegant government road, through the pictureque Gardiner River Canyon.

AT THE MAMMOTH SPRINGS

we stop to visit this remarkable hot water formation. Leaving here about three o'clock, we pass through the Silver and Golden Gates three miles distant, having ascended in the eight miles from Gardiner about 2,000 feet, here entering upon what is termed the "Park Plateau."

From this point the road is through a charming country almost level for the next ten miles. Six miles from the Golden Gate brings us to Apollinaris Spring and Willow Park. Here is located our first Permanent Camp. The tourist finds a warm dinner and a cheery campfire awaiting him. His first impression is one of surprise and delight at the beautiful location and the comfortable appearance of the camp.

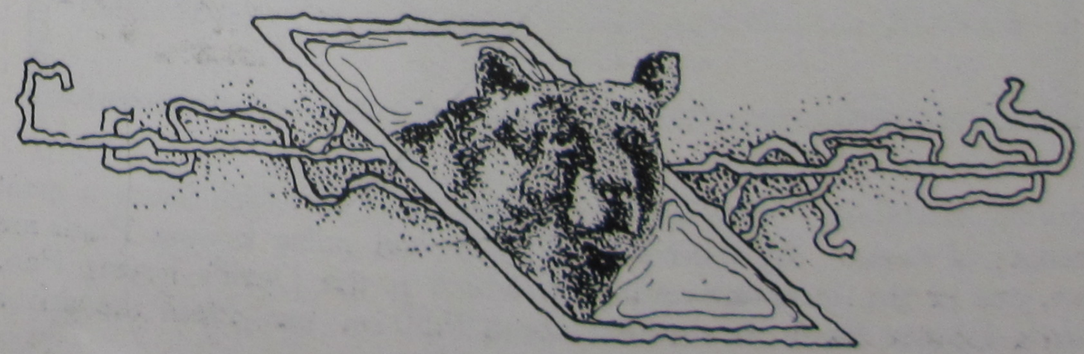

A brief description of this camp will answer for all, since they are all very much alike. All camps are situated among beautiful, stately pines, at the edge of a pretty meadow and near a crystal mountain stream, usually abounding in mountain trout. Near most camps there is opportunity to fish.

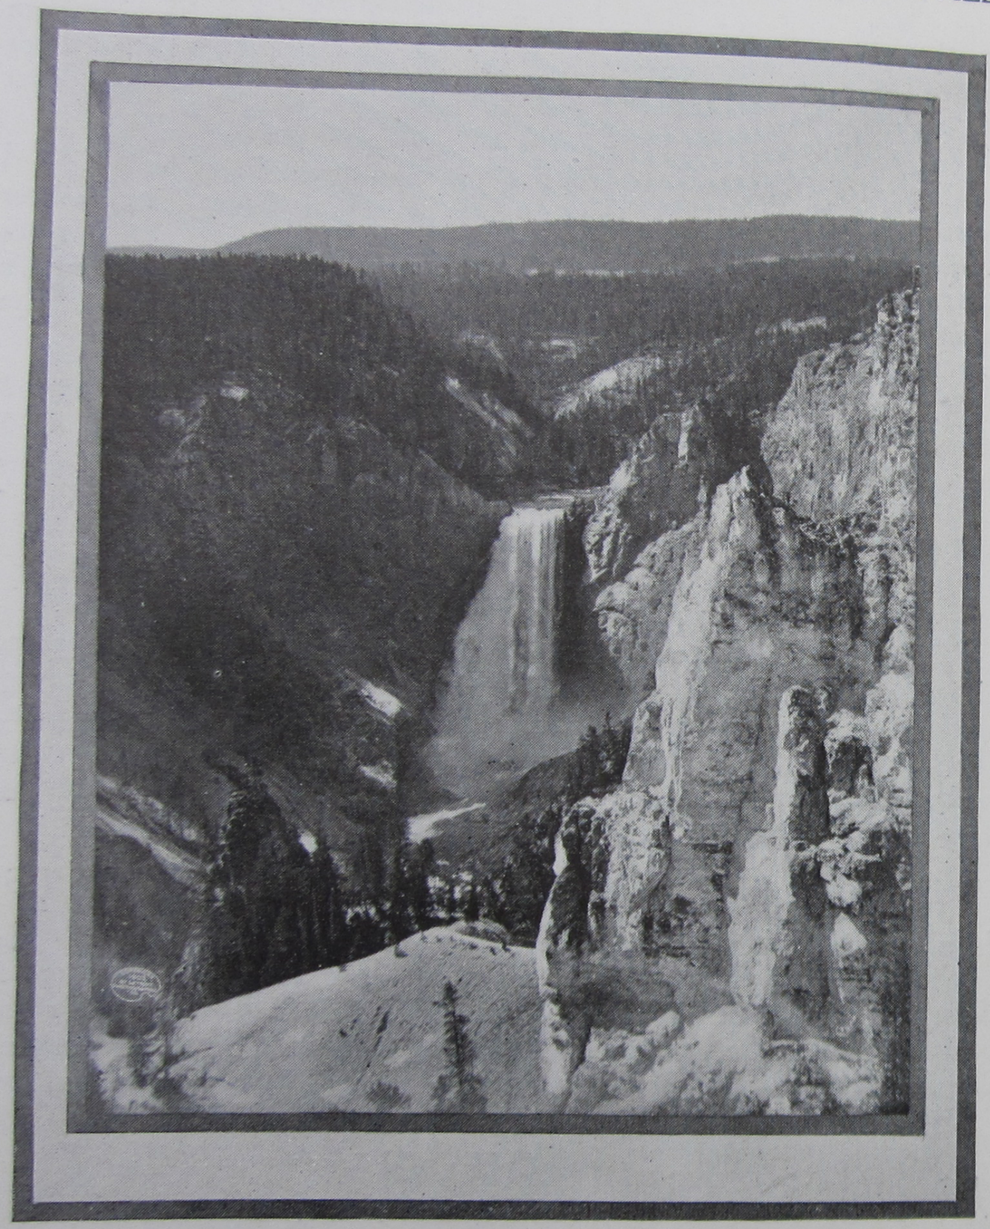

COMPARTMENT TENTS

These have four bedrooms and hallway in each. We have some with one bed. Our beds are upon bedsteads with woven wire springs and fine mattresses, with good clean sheets, blankets, quilts, pillows, etc. The large tents are fitted with stoves. We have the finest steel range cook stoves, women cooks, with a matron and camp keeper, in charge of each camp to look carefully to the comfort of guests.

WE HAVE LARGE DININGROOM TENTS

clean, white dishes, and the best provisions the markets afford. The water from Apollinaris Spring is one of the most appreciated features of Willow Park Camp. At 7:30 a. m. tourists leave this camp for the Upper Geyser Basin. One and one-half miles from camp, Obsidian Cliff is passed—farther on Beaver Lake—the beautiful Twin Lakes, and Roaring Mountain. This last is a mountain from which issues a great quantity of steam. By the roadside for several miles boiling Pools are seen, one of the most interesting of which is the Devil's Frying Pan. Norris Geyser Basin is reached about 9:30 a. m. Here the driver shows tourists all objects of interest. All that is seen here is witnessed in the Upper Geyser Basin on a much grander scale. The lunch station is reached on the Gibbon River about noon. The ride and scenery along this river charm all. Just before lunch the Gibbon Falls is passed. This is a very pretty fall of eighty feet. A few miles farther on falls in the Madison River are visited. Another charming ride of a few miles along this river and the Lower Geyser Basin is reached. A stop is made here to visit the Mammoth Paint Pots and the Fountain Geyser.

Four miles farther on and the wonderful Middle Geyser Basin is visited. Three things are here found of marked interest:

The Excelsior Geyser Crater, Prismatic Lake and Turquoise Pool. While the Excelsior is constantly and furiously boiling and emptying an immense volume of boiling water into the river, it has not been in eruption as a geyser since 1889.

Five miles more brings the tourist to the wonderful Upper Geyser Basin. Our camp here is in a grove next to the Splendid, Riverside and Giant Geysers. A guide here shows tourists about the Basin. At 2 p. m. we leave this camp for Yellowstone Lake. The drive of nineteen miles to the lake is a most interesting one, passing over the Continental Divide twice. The night is spent at this camp. There are many things of great interest here, beautiful Pools, Paint Pots, etc. Coaches leave here at 7:30 a. m., arriving at Outlet before noon. Afternoon for fishing.

At 7:30 o'clock next morning leave for the Grand Canyon, distant sixteen miles. This is a charming ride along the Yellowstone River and through the Hayden Valley. The wonderful Mud Volcano and Sulphur Mountain are visited en route. The Canyon Camp is reached about noon. Tourists are taken with carriages to visit the Grand Canyon to Inspiration Point, visiting all points of interest along the Canyon.

The next morning tourists leave this Camp at 8 o'clock and reach

JUPITER TERRACE

Willow Park for dinner. Leave here at 2 p. m. for the evening train. Tourists are again permitted to visit Mammoth Springs and to stop at "Curio" stores and at Mammoth Hotel to arrange for Sleeping Car. They take supper at our Gardiner Hotel, and then go to the train. Tourists may stop at any Camp longer than this regular trip allows at a cost of $2.50 per day for each additional day. When a party or load wish to keep their team and driver for the extra day or days, a charge of $5.00 per day will be made for the team if a three-seated rig, and $8.00 per day for a four-horse coach.

Persons traveling with their own conveyance are accommodated at our Camps when not crowded with people with regular tickets, being furnished board and lodging at $2.50 per day.

Horses are fed oats at 25 cents per feed each, and hay at 50 cents per feed each.

TESTIMONIALS

The following testimonials are only a few out of many voluntarily bestowed. Any of the persons writing these will reply to letters of inquiry, but in addressing them stamp should be enclosed. Please read the testimonials following, as they answer almost, if not quite, every question you may feel like asking about our method of accommodations

Respectfully, W. W. WYLIE.

H. A. Hammond, Banker, Wyoming, Ill.

In July, 1900, my wife and I, in company with friends, made a tour of the Yellowstone Park. We did not decide upon the method we would use until we arrived at Livingston. We stopped there two days at the hotel. Tourists were coming out of the Park each evening and we had an excellent opportunity to ascertain the most desirable way to do the Park. We found all enthusiastic over the Wylie route, and so decided to go that way. * * * I should rather go the Wylie route and pay for it than go the Hotel route for nothing.

W. H. McConville, F. M. Nichols, G. H. Thorley, Atlantic, Iowa.

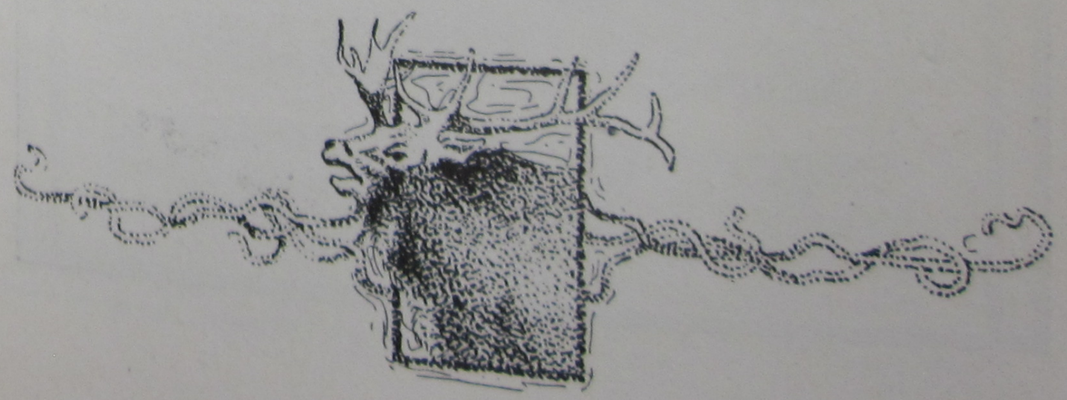

* * * We, the undersigned, wish to give Mr. Wylie an endorsement and to express our appreciation of the splendid treatment received from him while his guests in the Park last summer. * * * During our stay at the different camps, we have nothing but the highest praise to bestow upon Mr. Wylie for the manner in which he looked after the comfort and welfare of his patrons. The meals served are first-class in every respect, and he gives plenty of time to see all the great natural wonders. He also cautioned us to observe the rules and regulations of the government with reference to visitors to the Park and he made it his business to see that they were strictly complied with.

Prof. A. G. Gruman, Minneapolis, Minn.

* * * My wife and I found the managers of Camps, drivers and other employees to be men and women of unusual intelligence and Christian character. I have strongly recommended the Wylie trip to my friends who expect to go to the Park. * * I am certain, from observation and inquiry, that there is no other plan by which cultured people can make the trip so satisfactorily.

Theo. W. Goldin, Past Grand Commander, Wis., Janesville, Wis.

* * * Mr. Wylie has spent a great many years and a considerable amount of money in perfecting his very excellent system and in working up a business which, whether it has been profitable to him or not, has proved of great comfort, convenience and pleasure to thousands of tourists. During the season of 1900, with a party of friends of over a dozen, I made the tour of the Park under the charge of the Wylie Co., and I can frankly say that in a traveling and camping experience of over twenty-five years, I have never found myself better cared for, and never received more courteous treatment; and that is the report made to me by every person who has ever made the Park trip with the Wylie people.

1899

MOUNTAIN SHEEP

Dr. A. C. Richardson, Buffalo, N. Y.

* * * I wish to state on Mr. Wylie's behalf that I was a good deal more than satisfied with the treatment I received both from Mr. Wylie personally and from all persons employed by him. His camps furnished every needed accommodation and comfort, and the fare provided for visitors was of the very best. And further, his system of permanent camps furnishes a most novel and delightful variation from the ordinary method of providing for visitors at summer resorts. I have urged and shall continue to urge all friends of mine who intend to visit the Park, to place themselves in the hands of Mr. Wylie while there.

James Paige, Prof. of Law, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn.

* * * It was my pleasure this last summer to spend ten days at Wylie Camps, and I wish to bear witness to the comfort and pleasure of seeing the Park under this Permanent Camp system. From my personal experience and observation I am satisfied that a vast proportion of our people demand and must have an opportunity to do the Park in this way, or they will never have the pleasure of seeing the rich benefits afforded through it to the American people.

Hon. S. G. Comstock, Ex-Member of Congress, Moorhead, Minn.

In July, 1898, with my family, I made the National Yellowstone Park Tour with the Wylie Camping Co. We were much pleased with the accommodations provided by them. They were attentive and obliging. The camping feature is a great treat to people of sedentary habits, or those who spend most of their lives indoors. I sincerely hope that the Wylie Company may do business and flourish in the Park for many years.

Col. J. W. Miles, President First National Bank, Manchester, Iowa.

I write you not particularly in Mr. Wylie's behalf, but in behalf of the people who travel in the Yellowstone Park. My son and I made the trip with Mr. Wylie last August, and we are anxious to see him have fair play and justice in the continuation of his business there. One of the camps is near the Grand Canyon, near where the other company's hotel is located. Several of the Hotel guests visited our camp, and they all express themselves as much pleased with the surroundings and said if they ever toured the Park again, that they would go with Mr. Wylie and would advise their friends to do so. * * * Under Mr. Wylie's arrangements there are no extra charges; $35.00 is the total charge, and I found no way to spend a dollar more. I sincerely hope that your department will give Mr. Wylie the protection and encouragement which he needs.

A. I. Root, of the A. I. Root Manufacturing Co., Medina, Ohio.

* * * I wish especially to recommend the courteous treatment received from all of Mr. Wylie's people at all the different camps from beginning to end, and especially the low prices, as a very great convenience to thousands of people who hardly feel able to bear the expense of such a trip.

Ex-Mayor Carter H. Harrison, Chicago, Ill.

W. W. Wylie, Bozeman, Mont.—Dear Sir: I recall with great pleasure my tour of the Yellowstone Park under you management in the summer of 1903. I consider your system of Permanent Camps as near perfect as it could be made. Personally I am very fond of camp life, and that feature of the trip lingers especially in my memory. I cannot imagine a more delightful method of viewing the beauties and wonders of the Park than under your direction. I am promising myself the pleasure of taking my wife and children through Yellowstone Park and under your management as soon as my boy's health will permit his being taken into high altitude. With kind regards,

Sincerely yours, Carter H. Harrison

General P. M. Washabaugh, Chester, Pa.

The pleasure of our trip was greatly enchanced by the excellent method of caring for tourists by the Wylie Camping Co. It would be difficult to conceive of a more pleasing and satisfactory way of seeing this Nature's Wonderland. The camps are well arranged and comfortable; the conveyances first-class; the drivers, guides and employees intelligent, kind and polite, so that we saw everything to be seen under the most favorable circumstances. If any of our party should go again, or any of our friends, as we certainly expect to do, we will go with the Wylie Camping Co.

Charles C. McCabe, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Omaha, Neb.

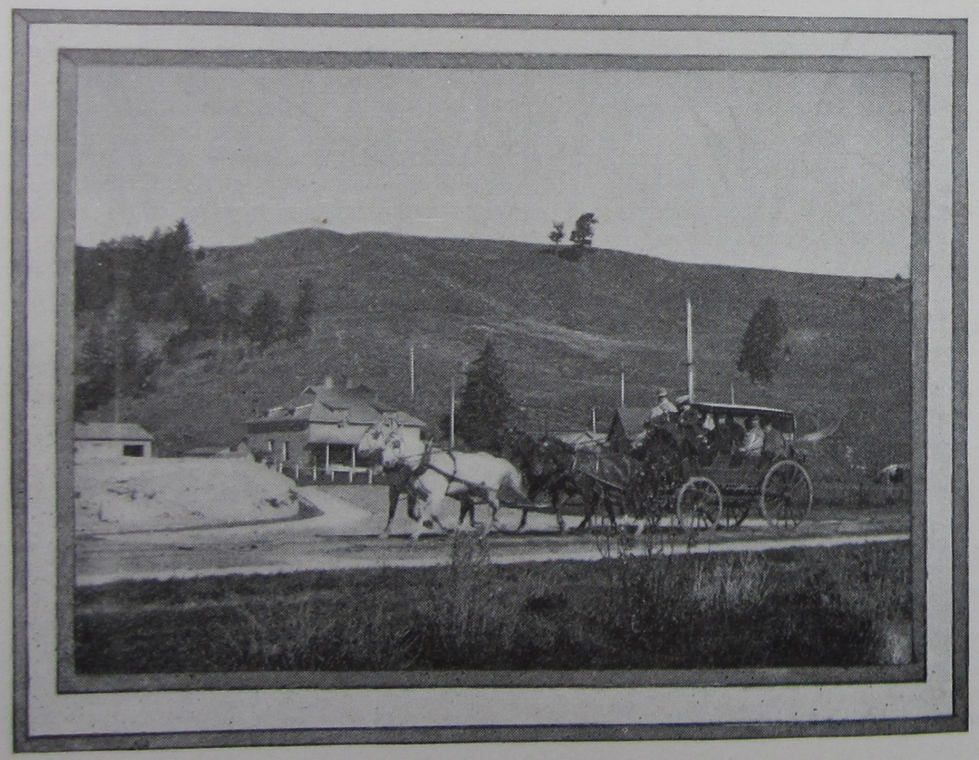

I wish to express the great pleasure in the trip I have recently taken with your company through the Yellowstone Park. It would be impossible to put into words a description of how much we enjoyed that trip, and we were perfectly satisfied with the provisions you made for our comfort. The Permanent Camps were satisfactory to us in every way.

Dr. A. W. Croffut, European Excursion Agent, Washington, D. C.

I was in the Yellowstone Park last summer. I traveled with the Wylie's and enjoyed it immensely, being satisfied that I saw much more than I would have done under any other auspices. Mr. Wylie's outfit is a model of its kind—ample, comfortable, and most satisfactory in every way.

James Winn, Griggsville, Ill.

W. W. Wylie—Dear Sir: * * * Werel going through the Park a dozen times or more, I should go with your company the same as we did last summer.

Grand Canyon Camp, Yellowstone National Park, July 17, 1902.

We, the undersigned, coming from different parts of our country, and strangers to one another until the present tour, having all but completed our trip through the wonderland of wonderlands, the Yellowstone National Park, feel constrained, from our delightful experience during the week of our camp life, to call the attention of the public in general, and of intending tourists in particular, to the Wylie Permanent Camps. We also beg to bear emphatic testimony:

1. To the high character of their management.
2. To the intelligence and courtesy of their attendants.
3. To their excellent tent and table service.
4. To their commendable provisions for trrnsportation.
5. To the completeness of the service they render in bringing before the tourist all the features of the Park.

Nearly all of the foregoing are brief extracts from letters written to the Secretary of the Interior, at Washington, D. C.

We have very many voluntary commendations from which many pages might be printed.

We have provided additional accommodations for the coming season for those who wish to stay longer with us than the time of the regular ticket. The number who desire to do this is increasing every year. The noted specialist, Dr. Seth Scott Bishop, 103 State Street, Chicago, with his family, stayed twenty days at one camp, and when trip was completed they immediately made the entire tour with us again. Many college and scientific people stay in our Camps for rest and exploration of the Park.

Very Rev. Thomas Egan, Vicar General Diocese of Fargo, Fargo, N. Dakota

* * * I enjoyed my tour of the Park and was well pleased with the care and attendance received from the Wylie people. The best recommendation I can give them is to say, that if I was going through the Park again, and I hope to some day, I would go with Mr. Wylie.
