MACY-COLBY HOUSE — AMESBURY Arthur Griffin

John Greenleaf Whittier in his poem "The Exiles" describes an incident in which the owner of this fine old house, Thomas Macy, was exiled in 1655 for sheltering Quakers during a rainstorm. The house has a very interesting structure in that its roof is put together with wooden pegs.

DOORWAY OF MOFFAT LADD HOUSE — PORTSMOUTH, NEW HAMPSHIRE

Built in 1763 by Captain John Moffat, merchant, as a marriage gift to his son Samuel. Set on a slight elevation overlooking the old wharves, the house is a rather imposing structure, but it still does not do justice to the elegance of the interior. Wooden carvings that are matchless.

INTERIOR OF MOFFAT LADD HOUSE — PORTSMOUTH, NEW HAMPSHIRE

The wide stairway lends charm and beauty to the approach to the second floor. The light from a window reveals the decorated walls. The furnishings throughout are in keeping with the era of building and many of them were placed there by the original owners.

GRAVE AND STATUE OF ETHAN ALLEN — BURLINGTON Warren E. Case

In the Green Mountain Cemetery, Burlington, Vermont, is the grave of Ethan Allen and the Stephenson Statue that raises high as a memento to the great personality of whom we have no authentic picture.

Haystack Mountain looms majestic ahead of us in this quiet Vermont valley. It was from these regions that Samuel Herrick recruited his famous Rangers that gave Stark and his men at Bennington such heroic service.

SWAN BOATS, PUBLIC GARDENS — BOSTON Arthur Griffin

On a small pond in mid-town Boston there are attractive Swan Boats that are propelled by foot power as a bicycle . . . being in the center of The Public Gardens, this pond affords a most colorful site for a quiet boat ride . . . with one of Boston's finest hostelry in the background . . . our own Ritz-Carlton.

CONCORD MINUTEMAN — Arthur Griffin

"By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard round the world" — Emerson

MAP SHOWING THE POSITIONS OF THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH ARMIES AT THE SIEGE OF NEWPORT — BATTLE OF RHODE ISLAND.

BIRTHPLACE OF GILBERT STUART — NORTH KINGSTON, RHODE ISLAND 0662
The Costas

Here in a little valley amongst rolling hills is the large barn-like nouse in which was born, in 1751, Gilbert Stuart. He was the son of a Scottish snuff-grinder and went to study in Newport where he attracted attention in his painting of dogs and the copying of other pictures. He studied abroad for a few years in the early 1770's and the Revolution interrupted his work in Newport in 1775. He went to England and after the war worked both in New York and Boston. This old building has lately been restored and snuff is again being produced.

BRADLEY FIELD AIRPORT — WINDSOR LOCKS, CONNECTICUT

Where once were many fertile acres given to tobacco growing we now have a huge and important airport development that serves the Connecticut Valley — with special attention to the cities of Hartford Connecticut and Springfield Massachusetts.

THE DOCKS AT ESSEX — Essex, Connecticut Ray Mainwaring

Today there are seen only few of the sailing craft — where once was built many small and even large craft that went to war on both the hated pirates and the British. The town was of such importance that the British attacked during the War of 1812 and burned forty ships that were at anchor or nearby in the Middle and North Coves.
