INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this project is to identify, research and prepare Florida Site File forms for all pre-1945 properties in the neighborhood of the City of St. Petersburg known as Kenwood, specifically the area of the city bounded by Interstate 275 on the east, 1st Avenue N on the south, 34th Street N on the west, and 9th Avenue N on the north. This neighborhood is known as one of the historic residential areas of the city, and specific information was needed about its properties prior to making any decisions regarding Kenwood's eligibility for local listing, or listing on the National Register of Historic Places, possibly as a historic district, or as individual buildings or groups of buildings within the boundaries.

The City of St. Petersburg has been receiving Certified Local Government Grants focusing on updating the City's architectural and historic survey since 1991. The present grant will continue the City's policy of surveying its Neighborhood Planning Areas. The Uptown, Crescent Lake and Crescent Heights neighborhoods are another key portion of this overall survey.

SURVEY AREA

The maps on the following three pages illustrate the survey area in relation to the surrounding areas of the City of St. Petersburg, show the avenues, streets and boundaries of Kenwood and, finally, show the locations of all inventoried properties within the neighborhood, keyed to the list of Florida Site File properties, which appears later in this Final Survey Report.

PREVIOUS SURVEYS

In 1978 a survey effort was undertaken by the City of St. Petersburg to record on Florida Master Site File forms a number of individual properties scattered over the City. As part of this survey, four properties included in the current survey area were recorded and added to the Florida Master Site File. They were:

2101 1st Avenue N Harris Automotive Supply PI00716 (now demolished)
2741 2nd Avenue N Residence PI00712
2505 5th Avenue N St. Petersburg High School PI00718
2900 7th Avenue N Residence PI00727

In 1992-1993 the City of St. Petersburg sponsored a survey of the Old Southeast neighborhood. Included as part of that project was the completion of a number of Florida Master Site File forms which were left incomplete and never submitted to the State in previous survey efforts. Among them was one property in Kenwood:

2901 1st Avenue N Residence (State # not known)

As part of the Kenwood survey, all three of the extant properties included in the 1978 survey were resurveyed. The 2901 1st Avenue N property was not resurveyed, since it had been surveyed quite recently by the individual doing the current Kenwood survey.

METHODOLOGY

1. Spent the better part of an afternoon driving and walking around in Kenwood to become familiar with the general layout of the neighborhood and its various subareas. Since Kenwood is a large neighborhood with a number of distinct subareas, familiarity with these was essential prior to doing anything else. Also became familiar with the types and styles of buildings in the neighborhood.
2. Met with Planning Department staff members to obtain current information on their efforts in the Kenwood neighborhood. Maps and sources of information were provided. A computer printout of all properties with pre-1945 construction dates from the Property Appraiser, Pinellas County, was also provided. Also obtained a list of the five previously-surveyed properties within the boundaries.
3. Conducted further overviews of the neighborhood, using the City's Plat Maps, nine of which include sections of the neighborhood.
4. Reviewed easily-available secondary source materials, including city histories, containing basic data about Kenwood.
5. Was given copies of all property cards for the pre-1945 buildings in the neighborhood, based on the Property Appraiser's list.

6. Walked up and down each avenue and street in Kenwood to prepare a preliminary list of all pre-1945 properties to be included in the survey. Discovered that the Property Appraiser's list contained much misleading information on construction dates.
7. Compiled a list of to-be-surveyed properties for each avenue and street in the neighborhood, requesting additional property cards for buildings suspected of being pre-1945 but not included on the Appraiser's list. Also identified some post-1945 properties which, by their prominence on the street or their styles or potential historical importance, were to be included in the survey.
8. Organized all data obtained so far by avenue or street, in ascending address order, avenues first, then streets, south to north, east to west.
9. Photographed each property to be included in the survey, keeping the photos, as much as possible, in the same order as the forms were to be numbered.
10. Completed, using a coded sheet attached to a small clipboard, the physical descriptions for each of the 1,103 buildings/properties included in the survey while actually standing in front of them.
11. Reviewed each individual property and the neighborhood as a whole against the City of St. Petersburg's Historic Preservation Evaluation Categories A through F and the criteria for nominations to the National Register of Historic Places.
12. Began to complete and submit Florida Site File forms for those neighborhood properties needing no further research, beginning with #1 on 1st Avenue N.
13. Conducted research at St. Petersburg's Main Library, using city directories from 1915 to the present.
14. Had an opportunity to see the interiors of several neighborhood houses.
15. Conducted some research using the Planning Department's slides of the 1923 Sanborn Insurance Maps for the area between 1st Avenue and 5th Avenue N.
16. Talked to several individuals who provided information about Kenwood and its history.
17. Completed and submitted the Survey Log Sheet and Final Survey Report.
18. Completed and submitted the remaining Florida Site File forms.
19. Made preparations for a presentation to the St. Petersburg Historic Preservation Commission on the survey results.

SUMMARY OF KENWOOD'S SIGNIFICANT EVENTS AND INDIVIDUALS

The early part of the twentieth century saw an enormous amount of real state activity in St. Petersburg, and individuals were arriving from the North with the purpose of getting involved in what they hoped would become the real estate boom of the 1920s. Most were not disappointed, if they got involved early enough.

Charles R. Hall (1869-1934), who had been a millinery and window shade salesman, came to St. Petersburg from Philadelphia around 1910 (he was born in Detroit) and began his local real estate activities in 1912 with the planning and platting of two neighborhoods in the west-central part of the City, Hall's Central Avenue #1 and Hall's Central Avenue #2 subdivisions. Later he developed Lakewood Estates, south of Lake Maggiore. Hall's Central Avenue #1 and #2 subdivisions are located within the Kenwood survey area, together forming the largest land parcel within the boundaries, and including Seminole Park, the only park within the survey area. The plats were first submitted on March 15, 1912 for the area between 25th and 31st Streets N, 1st Avenue S and 7th Avenue N (now 5th Avenue N, see below).

The St. Petersburg Investment Company's plat for its subdivision bounded by 22nd and 25th Streets N, 5th Avenue S, and 7th Avenue N (now 5th Avenue N) was approved by the City of St. Petersburg on March 27, 1912. Sunshine Park subdivision, running from 19th to 22nd Streets N, and from 5th to 9th Avenues N, was platted and filed on September 20, 1912. The Kenwood subdivision, 28th to 31st Streets N, 5th to 9th Avenues N, was filed on June 4, 1913. The Bronx Addition, a subdivision developed by Joseph A. Townsend, had an approved plat as of May 31, 1921, with boundaries of 19th to 22nd Streets N, 3rd (now Burlington) to 7th Avenues N (now 5th).

The Addition to Kenwood, extending that subdivision west to 34th Street N, was filed on January 5, 1924. School Park subdivision, 26th to 28th Streets N, 7th to 9th Avenues N, had a plat filed on February 9, 1924, Brunson subdivision, 22nd to roughly 24th Streets N, 5th to 9th Avenues N, had a plat filed on September 20, 1924. Royal Palm Park's plat for the area including roughly 20th to 22nd Streets N, 1st to 3rd Avenues N (now Burlington) was approved by the City on November 25, 1924. Other, smaller subdivisions within the Kenwood neighborhood boundaries include Chevy Chase, Deeb (developed by contractor George Deeb) and the High School Addition, and were approved in the mid-1920s.

The 1923 Sanborn Insurance Maps show approximately 140 houses in the area from 1st to 7th Avenues N (1st to 5th today), and 19th to 31st Streets N.

The construction of St. Petersburg High School in 1926, requiring the large block of land between 5th and 9th Avenues N (today's names) and 25th to 26th Streets N, had a major effect on the northern part of the Kenwood neighborhood. More recently, construction of Interstate 275 has had a major impact, defining Kenwood's eastern boundary.

On January 9, 1928, the City adopted a series of avenue name changes, and 3rd Avenue N became Burlington Avenue N, 4th Avenue N became 3rd Avenue N, 5th Avenue N became 4th Avenue N, 6th Avenue N became Dartmouth Avenue N, 7th Avenue N became 5th Avenue N, and 8th Avenue N became 7th Avenue N.

LIST OF SURVEYED PROPERTIES

A total of 1,103 properties were surveyed and included in the Florida Site File as part of this project. Add to that the 1993 form for 2901 1st Avenue N, and the total is 1,104.

STYLE OR TYPE: A total of seventeen different historic architectural styles (Craftsman, Prairie, Tudor Revival and the like) and building types (bungalow, ranch and the like) can be found in Kenwood. In addition, the church building at 2750 5th Avenue N cannot properly be called Romanesque Revival, for it is far too late to be of that style, but it definitely exhibits many of its characteristics. Also, architecture is not easy to divide into neat classifications, particularly when the majority of buildings being studied are not too far removed from strictly vernacular or minimal examples of the prevailing high styles. Therefore, it is entirely possible that one person's "Craftsman Bungalow" might be another's "Bungalow," or two different architectural historians might very well classify the same building as "Tudor Revival" and "Minimal Traditional."

The numbers of properties for each style or type are as follows:

Bungalow	426
Frame Vernacular	216
Craftsman Bungalow	138
Minimal Traditional	124
Tudor Revival	64
Mediterranean Revival	28
Colonial Revival	18
Colonial Revival Bungalow	15
Masonry Vernacular	14
Ranch	13
Masonry & Frame Vernacular	10
Prairie (w/ 2901 1st Ave N)	10
American Foursquare	8
Craftsman	7
Dutch Colonial Revival	7
Mission	5
International	1

When all three "Bungalow" categories are combined, it can be said that more than 52% of all properties in Kenwood are Bungalows. Included on pages 15-18 of this report are copies of photographs illustrating the eight most prevalent historic building styles and types in Kenwood. The photographs are all of Kenwood properties.

The abbreviations used and a short description of the essential elements for each of these styles and types, as found in Kenwood, follow. The dates given are dates during which the style or type was popular in the neighborhood.

BU = Bungalow, 1905-1935

These have gable or clipped gable roofs with wide overhangs, either front-facing with a lower gable porch, or side-facing with a cross gable porch, in various configurations.

CB = Craftsman Bungalow, 1905-1928

Examples have the bungalow form with typical Craftsman roof-wall junction and porch details, sometimes with flared eaves or walls which flare out at the foundation. Features such as fancy decorative beam extensions are common, and decorative half-timbering or Oriental peaked roofs are also found.

CM = Craftsman, 1905-1928

These are not bungalows, but generally a full two or more stories in height, with gable roofs and typical Craftsman details (see above).

CR = Colonial Revival, 1900-1945

Examples here are not bungalows (see below), but other building types which have symmetrical façades and classical details such as Colonial multi-light window sash, door surrounds and porches. The style also includes one-story Cape Cod houses.

DR = Dutch Colonial Revival, 1920-1935

These houses have gambrel or gambrel-like roofs.

FV = Frame Vernacular, any date

Examples are wood-frame houses which do not fit into any of the other categories.

IN = International, 1935-1960

One (rather weak) example of the style is included in this survey, primarily because the house is located among other surveyed properties and contributes to the character of the street. International Style houses have flat roofs, smooth walls, horizontal proportions with cantilevers, shallow window reveals and no ornament.

MF = Masonry and Frame Vernacular, any date

The houses or garage apartments have masonry first floors and wood frame upper floors and do not fit into any of the other style or type categories.

MI = Mission, 1905-1928

Only a few examples were found in Kenwood, but the typical stuccoed walls, red barrel tile roofs, visor roofs, round arches and shaped parapets identify the style.

MR = Mediterranean Revival, 1915-1945

Examples are of the general Spanish Colonial Revival mode, with stuccoed walls, tile roofs or flat roofs with parapets.

MT = Minimal Traditional, 1935-1955

Neighborhood examples usually have at least one front-facing gable, modest eave overhangs and often an exterior chimney.

MV = Masonry Vernacular, any date

These masonry buildings do not fit into any other style or type category.

PR = Prairie, 1900-1928

Two stories with wide eave overhangs where the structure is not exposed (no visible rafter tails), typical Prairie porch and window details and a definite horizontal emphasis characterize these buildings.

RA = Ranch, 1935-1975

The early ranch examples included in the survey are single-story houses with low hip or gable roofs with overhangs, often with built-in garages.

RB = Colonial Revival Bungalow, 1915-1935

These are nearly always side-gabled bungalows with Colonial detailing at the entrances, plus a classically-detailed entrance porch.

SQ = American Foursquare, 1900-1928

Examples are two-and-a-half stories in height with square or nearly square elevations, often symmetrical, with Prairie-type eave overhangs and single-story front porches.

TR = Tudor Revival, 1925-1945

These houses have steeply-pitched roofs, often of the intersecting gable type, and façade chimneys next to entrance vestibules which are often asymmetrically gabled. Medieval details such as decorative half-timbering and leaded window sash, along with masonry accents, are found.

MOVED?: Moved-in buildings are identified with a "yes" in this column. There were several housemoving contractors working in Kenwood during the mid-1930s "moving boom," including Burnett & Beck and L.L. Allen.

RANK: The rank of the property on the City of St. Petersburg's A through F Historic Preservation Evaluation Categories appears next. A list of the six categories is on page 19 of this report.

ARCH = ARCHITECT

Dup = DuPont

Dyk = C.D. Dykema

For = A. Lowther Forrest

Pfa = A.L. Pfau, Jr. (A.F.?)

Ris = Harry W. Rise

Spa = Sparklin

Wen = H.C. Wendell

CON = CONTRACTOR: This information comes from the city's property cards. Keep in mind that some of these "contractors" were likely homeowners who served as general contractors for their own homes and subcontracted all or nearly all of the work. Others on the list built several buildings in the neighborhood. An asterisk indicates that the contractor played a significant role in the development of Kenwood or, as in the case of Cade Allen, in the development of other areas of St. Petersburg. Note that the three-letter abbreviations are in alphabetical order, but the surnames are not, so if a certain name is needed, look around a bit. For example, there are three "Parker" listings, and they appear close to each other, but not together.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

As I walked the avenues and streets of Kenwood in an initial effort to become acquainted with the neighborhood, I was impressed by the very low number of vacant lots and the lack of new construction. Wow! To me this was truly significant, for vacant lots and blocks/streets of mostly new construction plague many older neighborhoods in St. Petersburg and elsewhere. Also impressive is the relative lack of truly badly-altered houses--by my estimate, there are fewer than fifty of these in the entire neighborhood.

I am impressed by the fine architectural quality and variety found in Kenwood. Each street and subdivision has its own excellent examples of the various styles and types, the Bronx Addition no less than Hall's Central Avenue #2. While some sections and streets are stronger than others, each contributes impressive variety and character to the whole--a cohesive whole.

I was struck by the high number of moved-in houses in Kenwood, almost 170 pre-1945 dwellings in all, most of them bungalows moved during the early to mid-1930s from other St. Petersburg neighborhoods. I can imagine a parade of houses moving up and down 34th Street N in 1935, turning east on 5th Avenue N, on their way to Kenwood.

I also noticed the lack of commercial buildings in the heart of the neighborhood, and I wondered if this had been true historically. My research shows that, at least according to the City Directories, in 1926 there were only four commercial properties in the "interior" of what is today Kenwood--217 25th Street N (was Connor & Allison Grocers, is today a garage apartment for 2460 Burlington Avenue N), 2201 4th Avenue N (was Thomas L. Harvey Grocer, is today the Corner Grocery at 2201 3rd Avenue N) and 2409-2415 5th Avenue N (was Mint Smiles Co. & Robert Morris Grocer, 2409-2411 4th Avenue N is today apartments). Keep in mind that most of the avenue names were changed in early 1928--refer to the significant events summary.

As I completed the Florida Site File forms one-by-one, starting in August, 1994, I began to rank some buildings in the City's "F" category because of significant alterations made over the years, particularly to the façades. Then upon closer observation I noted that every one of these "F" buildings could reasonably be returned to its historic or near-historic appearance by the removal of later work, and that, except for the façades, they were in fairly original shape, at least on the exterior. So I made the decision to rank everything in the "E" category, leaving no "F" buildings, because each one of the buildings makes a definite and defensible contribution to the overall significance of the historic neighborhood. I have identified the "E" properties which have substantial architectural and/or historical merit to Kenwood on the properties list.

It is my opinion that Kenwood qualifies for designation as the "Kenwood Historic District" under both local and National Register of Historic Places criteria. The applicable National Register criteria are A, B and, in particular, C. This proposed district is divided by 5th Avenue N, significant in its own right, ends at 31st Street N in the 1st-to-5th sector, and St. Petersburg High School is already listed, so a viable alternative to listing such a large area at once might be to start with the 1st-to-5th part, which in my opinion should stay together and not be further divided. I can understand dividing the neighborhood at 5th, however. I do not advocate ignoring the 5th-to-9th area, as it possesses fine characteristics and qualities of its own, not the least of which is the boulevarded section of 7th Avenue N in the Kenwood and Addition to Kenwood subdivisions, and it is a viable historic district entirely on its own merits. Whether or not all or part of Kenwood is eventually listed, I encourage the City of St. Petersburg to continue to offer and to expand its design/rehabilitation advisory services and economic assistance to property owners.

As with every historic neighborhood, the special character of Kenwood is very delicate and depends on a number of physical factors, among them the locations of buildings on their lots. In most early St. Petersburg neighborhoods, some lots have houses or garage apartments located far back on the lots, on the alleys, with no buildings on the street sides, and this placement is historically appropriate and correct for those properties. I urge any effort aimed toward the rehabilitation of existing structures and new construction in Kenwood to consider carefully the historic placement of buildings on the properties and the historic character of the individual properties, buildings and streets.

In addition to the historic district potential, I believe that three properties in Kenwood qualify for individual recognition. One of these, St. Petersburg High School, is already listed, but the fine Craftsman Bungalow at 2741 2nd Avenue N and the equally-fine Mediterranean Revival house at 2900 7th Avenue N also qualify for individual listing. I rated each of these houses "D."

This study, while comprehensive in its look at the buildings, is not a comprehensive study of the people who built the buildings and lived in them. Some research was done, but much more could be done in the future.
