Patch Release 2.4 includes improvements to our user interface and some behind the scenes changes to help us manage references.

Below are some changes you should expect to see.

Changes that affect all users

All of our users should see improvements in the user interface

1. When Reference Code Column displays, the entire code displays without having to be resized.
2. Results Grids on pages like Search, Dashboard, and Reference Profile pages, 50 records display by default.
3. Results Grids on pages like Search, Dashboard, and Reference Profile can now be resized, helping to eliminate empty white space.

Changes that affect our Reference Owners (Contributors)

We have made some changes to help manage Saved Searches and Collections for those users who contribute material to the Data store. In addition, we made changes to make it slightly easier for references to be sent to the data.doi.gov and data.gov site.

Collections and Saved Searches Confirmation page

When creating a new collection, we now provide you with a confirmation page, looking similar to this:

Dashboard - My Collections and My Shared Search User Interface Improvements

From the Dashboard page, the My Collections and My Saved Search sections, the results grid displays the ID Number and URL, enabling you to easily share with your colleagues, and makes configuring the CMS - Data Store Widgets easier.

Reference Metadata - Unit Code Status changes

Based on your feedback, Unit Codes associated with your references are defaulted to Approved status rather than Pending status, allowing more references to go data.doi.gov rather than get caught in the Approval process.

Changes that affect our administrative users

We have made some changes that allow the Data Store Administrators to manage ownership of references, helping to keep active owners and editors and remove those owners that have retired or changed positions.
